THE BICYCLE: December 7, 1937 17

On the left, a rider taking pace behind a Derny cyclo-moteur; on the right, a "commercial" motor-cycle supplies the shelter. These photographs were taken during the actual trials held in Paris recently to decide whether or not the "cyclo-moteurs" would be suitable for pacing the famous Bordeaux-Paris race, which has been run off behind "commercial" motor-cycles for the past few years
